

ABSTRACT

FALL OUT OF THE GAP

A communication gap exists between secondary and postsecondary institutions, a contributing factor to the lack of academic success for college freshmen. Although this has been the topic of forums in academia for many years, little practical progress seems to have been made. After exploring and discussing some of the causes, some suggestions for bridging or closing the gap are offered.

Maureen Elizabeth Edwards
December 2008