

California State University, Fresno
Urban and Regional Transformation Cohort Present

Central Valley Families in Transformation

Speaker Series:

Current Trends and Community Responses

Co-sponsored by the College of Social Sciences, the College of Science and Mathematics, the Craig School of Business, the Lyles College of Engineering, and Departments of Psychology and Sociology.

Wednesday, February 18

12:30pm to 1:30pm

Peters Building, Room 192

Fresno State

Public Health Issues in the Central Valley:

Diabetes, Infant Mortality & Perinatal Mood and Anxiety Disorders

California Health Collaborative

Presented by Rosendo Iniguez and Susan Kordell

This presentation will address important health issues that affect thousands of people in the Central Valley. The presentation is designed to raise awareness about these health issues and spark discussion on how the community can unite to solve these issues and improve health among all.

Light refreshments and parking passes will be provided. All participants are welcome. If you need special accommodations please call 559-278-2234.