

The Fresno State Mock Trial Program

The Fresno State Mock Trial Program is a competitive and nationally ranked team with various opportunities for students to learn about legal procedures and the judicial system. This program also enhances a student's abilities for public speaking, critical thinking, and strategizing. It offers students the chance to compete at intercollegiate competitions nationwide.

Formed in 2005 by Professor Harvey Wallace and Gordon Park, Fresno State's Mock Trial Program has been active for 12 years and has grown greatly in size and reputation among other college teams under the American Mock Trial Association (AMTA).
