

Connecting with Science

What does a red and white spotted mushroom have to do with Santa Claus? A plant science expert can tell you.

That's where Central Valley Café Scientifique comes in. It's a free, off-campus monthly forum held the first Monday of each month to explore the latest ideas in science and technology, to hear from local scientists and to connect with other science enthusiasts through friendly conversation.

Dr. James Farrar, chair of Fresno State's Department of Plant Science, will talk about that Mushroom-Santa link during the next Café Scientifique at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 3, at DiCicco's Italian Restaurant in downtown Clovis. It's a great chance to savor some science.

FRESNO STATE
POWERING THE NEW CALIFORNIA

More information at www.FresnoStateNews.com

On Campus

Wednesday, Dec. 5 - 7 p.m.

Men's Basketball vs. CSU Monterey Bay

Save Mart Center

Community Night • Tickets: $2 adult, $1 youth

