

The California State University, Fresno Armenian Studies Program and the Leon S. Peters Foundation present

“CLASSICAL ARMENIAN IN THE 21ST CENTURY: WHY ARMENIAN SOURCES MATTER TO STUDENTS TODAY”

by

Dr. Sergio La Porta and Dr. Michael Pifer and student participants in the Fresno Institute for Classical Armenian Translation

Dr. Sergio La Porta

What does Armenian Studies have to offer other fields and disciplines? This summer nine students from around the country and the world have come to Fresno State to participate in a two-week intensive workshop called the Fresno Institute for Classical Armenian Translation (FICAT). The purpose of FICAT is to train students who have a basic knowledge of Classical Armenian to produce high-quality translations of texts that are important to their research. Their areas of study vary widely from political and cultural history to linguistics and religious studies, but they all found that they needed Classical Armenian to develop their research. This evening they will talk about their work and why Classical Armenian sources are important to their projects. Please come and meet these terrific students!

Dr. Michael Pifer

Tuesday, June 12, 2018 • 7:30PM

University Business Center • A. Peters Auditorium • Fresno State

Free admission. Parking in Lots P6 and P5 near the UBC.

Use Parking Code 273825 to receive FREE PARKING PERMIT

