

Barbara Stroud Training and Consultation

Foundations of Infant Mental Health Training Program

May 8, 2014

Building Interventions

How can you support dyadic skills (relationship interactions) that will facilitates the child's developmental agenda - provide examples:

What activities can you teach a caregiver that will enhance the parent child relationship and increase joy in the system – provide examples:

How can you provide structure to the environmental conditions in the home or early care environment that offer predictability, elements of personal control, and build emotional understanding for children – provide examples:
