Newsletter Volume 2 - Issue 1

The Master of Public Health Program is grooming our future public health professionals, making it one of the leading graduate schools on the west coast.

A Letter from the MPH Director

On behalf of the MPH students, faculty, staff, and advisory board members, let me congratulate each of the individuals who completed the degree requirements during the 2005-2006 academic year. As we bid farewell to our students, we welcome and look forward to working with students in Cohort 13, the first class to be admitted into our Health Policy and Management Option.

The MPH continues with its efforts to enhance communication with our students, faculty, and friends and are making many changes to facilitate this process. Our re-designed website plays a key role in our communication strategy, be sure to visit and find updated information about your program offerings, faculty hours, faculty advisors, the revised field work manual, and the comprehensive exam policy and instruction documents among others.

The MPH faculty also continues to disseminate information via the listserv programs. Remember that students in the MPH program are required to subscribe to the listserv to receive updated job interviews and professional development opportunities, we even have a listserv for our alumni and friends.

Let me conclude this letter by inviting each of you to schedule an in-person advising session with your advisors, we are here to help you, but need to meet with you in person to accurately answer the questions you may have about the program. Welcome to a productive new year.

- Miguel A. Perez, Ph.D., CHES

Dr. Miguel Perez Wins 3rd Fullbright Award

Dr. Miguel A. Perez received his second Fulbright Senior Specialist Award and the third Fullbright Award during his career. Dr. Perez implemented a 40 hour seminar on adolescent sexuality, provided technical assistance in the Development of a Master of Public Health Program and stated the process for a research study among first year college students at the Universidad del Norte in Barranquilla. During this spare time, Dr. Perez worked with Dr. Pinzon-Perez and Ms. Alonso from the medical faculty in Uninorte to write a health promotion book, in Spanish, which will be out in December of this year.

Congratulations Dr. Vicki Krenz

Dr. Vicki Krenz won the Blue Cross National Environmental Leadership Award in Asthma Management. The Environmental Protection agency (EPA) initiated the award to bring attention to the profound effect an individual's environment can have on his or her health and well being, and to recognize health plans and health care providers for their leadership in addressing management of environmental triggers as part of their comprehensive asthma management programs.

Welcome Professor Mohammad Rahman

The Department of Health Science is pleased to welcome Dr. Mohammad Rahman. Dr. Rahman obtained his doctoral degree from Brandeis University in 2006. His teaching and research focuses on healthcare management and economic evaluation of healthcare organizations. He has special interest in international health in the areas of community based health insurance schemes and telemedicine. Dr. Rahman will teach in the Health Policy and Management option.

Experience at the BRFSS Conference

The Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance System (BRFSS) is the world's largest, ongoing telephone health survey system, tracking health conditions and risk behaviors in the United States yearly since 1984. Conducted by the 50 state health departments as well as those in the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the U.S. Virgin Islands with support from the CDC, BRFSS provides state-specific information about issues such as asthma, diabetes, health care access, alcohol use, hypertension, obesity, cancer screening, nutrition and physical activity, tobacco use, and more. Federal, state, and local health officials and researchers use this information to track health risks, identify emerging problems, prevent disease, and improve treatment.

On March 20, 2006, three MPH students, Johnny Lee, Tara Powers, and Gilda Zarate attended the 23rd Annual Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance Survey (BRFSS) conference. Gilda Zarate writes, "This conference was of great value to my development as a public health professional. It allowed me to meet the scientists directly involved in this nationwide effort to monitor the public health trends as its citizens cope with the nuances of a new century. What seem most surprising to me was the level of commitment and professionalism that the BRFSS staff has invested to generate the most qualified telephone-based survey that has served as a model to other countries and were also present in the conference to learn about the specificity and yields of this endeavor. In a more personal note, the introduction to the BRFSS and its professionals provided me with the tools and resources to re-evaluate my career objectives and values to renew my commitment with the community that I work with."

The MPH and the Health Science Department are pleased to finance their participation in this program.

Scholarships

The department of health science has scholarships available. To apply please contact Dr. Sherm Sowby at sherms@csufresno.edu for additional information and application format.

CDC Internship

The Internship Program for Students of Minority-Serving Institutions was developed to strengthen the academic and professional development of minority students by creating partnerships between minority serving institutions and the public health community. The program aims to place students at federal, state, and local health departments, community-based organizations and other health-related agencies for practical experience in the field of public health education and promotion. Visit www.dhpe.org or visit Dr. Miguel A. Perez, the campus liaison, for more information.

International Programs Scholarship Fund Gets Boost

Students planning to participate in any of the campus-sponsored Study Abroad programs will find things much easier to afford, thanks to the Office of the Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs. A significant allocation of financial resources has been made specifically targeted for study abroad students—that means more scholarships for students. For information and the application process, contact the International Programs Office at:

International Opportunities

The University's strategic plan for excellence envisions a diverse and global opportunity for students at Fresno State. The Master of Public Health Program is working hard to make opportunities available to students.

Spanish for Foreigners Programs

The Spanish for Foreigners program at the Instituto de Idiomas at the Universidad del Norte in Barranquilla, Columbia combines a multidisciplinary program with a variety of social and cultural activities. Participants have the opportunity to become involved in intercultural exchange and understanding.

Binational Health Week

The Master of Public Health Program is proud to participate in Binational Health Week activities which are sponsored by The United States-Mexico Border Health Commission. This binational health commission was created in July 2000, with the signing of an agreement by the Secretary of Health and Human Services of the United States and the Secretary of Health of Mexico. On December 21, 2004 the Commission was designated as a Public International Organization by Executive Order of the President. The Commission is comprised of the federal secretaries of health, the chief health officers of the ten border states, and prominent community health professionals from both nations.

The BHC has the unique opportunity to bring together the two countries and its border states to solve border health problems. The Commission provides the necessary leadership to develop coordinated and binational actions that will improve the health and quality of life on the border. This year Program Director Dr. Miguel A. Perez and Dean Ben Cuellar, will travel to Guadalajara, Mexico to participate in events related to binational health week which will be celebrated between October 8-14. Nayamin Cosio-Martinez, Johnny Lee, Angel Ponce, and Araceli Martinez from the MPH program will participate in activities throughout Fresno County during that time frame.

Brown Bag Lunch

On November 13, 2006 we are going to have a brown bag lunch with MPH students to give them a chance to discuss different opportunities offered in the program, to answer questions you may have about the program, and to meet members of the advisory board. We will have an alumnus from the program talking about their experiences during and after they left the program. We hope to see you there. Time: 12-1pm
Location: McLane Hall 193
