Studying Humans: Considerations and Policies

Abstract:

It is useful to study and assess our own teaching, and if we're doing that, then it's useful to also publish about these studies and assessments. However, there are policies that must be followed and considerations to be made in studying your own students. This talk will cover some of the history of why those policies are in place and describe an outline of what you need to do to engage in doing research on teaching and learning.
