

The Story of Pablo and Daisy (Mora). Chavarria

BY KIRA GANGBIN

Chapter 1

It was a bright and sunny day in Fresno as students piled in for their engineering statics class. The teacher began to lecture on the difficulty of this class and the need to form study groups in order to succeed. The students moaned and groaned as they got into study groups and began to introduce themselves to their classmates.

The monotonous chatter of "Hi, my name is..." was murmured throughout the room. The group in the front consisted of Daisy Mora, Pablo Chavarria, and a few other students, all contemplating why they took a class this early in the morning. In their conversation (which currently had little to do with statics), they decided to meet for their first study session to discuss goals and plans for future classwork.

Chapter 2

Two days after their first statics class, Daisy and Pablo's study group decided to meet in a study room in the Fresno State Library. There was just one problem.... Daisy was no where to be seen. The group mates contemplated moving on without her and catching her up later, or simply waiting for her. Just as they decided to move on, the door slammed open.

"I am so sorry everyone! I just came from my part time job at concrete ready mix company and I thought I could get here in time!" exclaimed Daisy.

Relieved that she was okay and impressed at her skills to carry out a part time job, the students began their studying. Amidst the studying, there was some giggling and jokes, but Daisy was as focused as a doctor giving surgery. Pablo noticed this about Daisy and quickly took note that he could not be a distraction to her and had to remain focused as well.

Chapter 3

Study, study, study. That's all Daisy and Pablo would do. Pablo could always be found in the computer lab studying or doing homework, while Daisy was either busy working at her part time job or in the computer lab as well.

Finally, after non-stop work, both Daisy and Pablo decided to let loose a bit and start hanging out and joining clubs. They both joined Students in Construction (SIC) as well as Sigma Lambda Chi. They even went out with their mutual friend group to get sushi, hang out in the Tower District, and meet up at friends' houses on the weekend. At this point, Daisy and Pablo had formed an unbreakable friendship that some people thought could have been more than just a friendship.

Time went on and Daisy, Pablo, and their friend group made countless memories together. In a blink of an eye, their college career was coming to an end, it was already their last semester before graduation. It was at their last CM Banquet where Daisy and Pablo talked and talked and talked and talked. Then, before anyone knew what happened, Daisy and Pablo magically became boyfriend and girlfriend.

Both Daisy and Pablo had some of the best moments of their lives leading up to graduation, until the job offers came out. Daisy was hired at a company she had previously interned with: SJ Amoroso in Los Angeles, and Pablo was hired at Kiewit in Bakersfield. Pablo and Daisy decided to dedicate themselves to a long distance relationship which was a struggle (but also not really because there was lots of laughing and love). This occurred for a year and a half until Pablo got a phone call that would change his life.

"Hello, is this Mr. Chavarria?"

"Yes. How may I help you?"

"Due to the opening of a position in the LA area, we would like to relocate you."

It was a dream come true! Daisy and Pablo immediately moved in together and started their new life together. In April 2018, 10.5 years after they started dating, Pablo and Daisy got married. As of June 2019, they have two daughters, Sofia who is 6 years old and Penelope who is 5 years old.

Daisy and Pablo both agree that by being in the same field has strengthened their relationship because they understand the demands of their profession in the industry. Furthermore, they can both push each other to be the best they can possibly be every single day.

that makes us reach for more, that plants the fire in our hearts and brings peace to our minds.
