

Bokisch Vineyards

Bokisch Vineyards is looking for harvest interns from mid-July through November. We are a family owned winery producing ultra-premium wines from Spanish varietals. Harvest 2014 will mark the launch of our new winery and custom crush facility, where we will make our own wines and provide custom crush services to clients producing ultra-premium wines.

The harvest intern position offers successful candidates a well-rounded crush experience, with opportunities working out in the vineyards and in the winery. Harvest interns will assist with all aspects of harvest, including but not limited to: grape sampling, lab analysis, setup and operation of processing equipment, yeast and nutrient additions, cap management, red and white pressing and fermentation monitoring.

If interested, please send a resume and cover letter to Elyse Perry, Assistant Winemaker:
