Candidate Professional Dispositions

The Kremen School of Education and Human Development professional education unit fosters the development of the following professional dispositions among our candidates. Candidates increasingly reflect these dispositions in their work with students, families, and communities.

Reflection	Candidates develop the dispositional tendency to reflect on their professional practice. We support the development of this disposition by having candidates regularly reflect on their learning and on their practice.
Critical thinking	Candidates analyze situational contexts, resulting in more informed decision-making. We provide our candidates practice analyzing the implications of intrapersonal, interpersonal and contextual issues in educational settings.
Professional ethics	Candidates learn to make well-reasoned ethical judgments. We foster this disposition by teaching ethical decision-making that relies on reflection and results in professional action.
Valuing diversity	Candidates are able to work effectively with diverse populations and recognize the importance of valuing of cultural, linguistic, cognitive, and physiological diversity. We promote this disposition through experiences in educational settings with diverse populations and opportunities to discuss, observe, and reflect on the benefits of valuing diversity.
Collaboration	Candidates learn and practice the skills of collaboration in their classes and in their fieldwork. Furthermore, we model collaboration in our work with one another and with the larger educational community.
Life-long learning	Candidates demonstrate a commitment to life-long learning about their profession and beyond. We foster this disposition through pre-professional experiences that bring the candidate into the profession in meaningful ways and by acquainting them with opportunities for continuing professional growth.

The Multiple Subject Credential Program

Introduction to Field Experiences in the Multiple Subject Program

The Multiple Subject Credential Program is designed to prepare students to teach in pre-school, grades K-12 and Adult Literacy self-contained classrooms in a diverse society. The overall goal of the Kremen School of Education and Human Development is to produce a graduate who is a reflective collaborative practitioner. The program includes coursework and field work experiences in three parts.

The first of the three field experiences, EHD 174, requires a classroom placement in grades 4-8 two afternoons a week plus seminars. The focus is to work with individuals or small groups of students in reading/language arts and social studies. Teacher Candidates are given opportunities to practice applying the methodologies and strategies learned in classes that are taken concurrently with EHD 174.

EHD 178 requires four concurrent mornings a week in a classroom plus seminars. The Teacher Candidates work with small groups and teach whole class lessons to students in grades K-3. Teacher Candidates are given opportunities to practice applying the methodologies and strategies learned in classes that are taken concurrently with EHD 178. EHD 178 Student Teaching is intended to introduce Teacher Candidates to practical classroom teaching under the guidance of Cooperating Teachers and to enable the institution to determine when candidates are ready to begin daily supervised teaching.

The third student teaching experience, EHD 170, is a program culmination involving practicing the theory and methods learned in coursework and promotes the analysis of his/her own teaching. For Teacher Candidates to make progress, it is important that Cooperating Teachers and Teacher Candidates share in all aspects of classroom management. Teacher Candidates receive ample time to work with students and to demonstrate the ability to use a variety of methods and techniques. EHD 170 offers continuing opportunities for Teacher Candidates to apply what they have learned and to assume responsibilities of full-time teachers. It is hoped that each graduate will continue striving toward educational leadership and professional growth through lifelong learning.

To address the tremendous social, economic, cultural, and developmental diversity which exists in our classrooms today, Teacher Candidates are provided diverse teaching experiences. Accordingly, during the student teaching experience, candidates will be placed in at least two different grades and socio-economic levels during their student teaching. Teacher Candidates will also be afforded the opportunity to prepare and use instructional strategies, activities, and materials which are appropriate for students with diverse needs, interests, and developmental levels.

Each option is intended to provide a slightly different focus and training methodology for students. Currently, the major options being offered are as follows:

General - general option designed for students who need the most flexibility in their programs.

Early Childhood Education - a block program designed with an emphasis on Early Childhood Education.

Communicative Disorders - designed for students who wish to prepare for specialization in special education as educators of the deaf.

Dual Credential Program - teacher candidates may simultaneously work on a Multiple Subject and Education Specialist Credential.

Internship program - an alternative certification program for those who complete their program while under full time employment as classroom teachers.

Qualifications Related to the California Reading Initiative (A.B. 3482 and A.B. 1178)

The California Commission on Teacher Credentialing has set standards for Cooperating Teachers in regards to reading instruction. The following requirements from the Standards for the Preparation of Multiple Subject Teaching Credential Candidates for Reading, Writing and Related Language Instruction in English are of particular importance for students enrolled in EHD 174, EHD 178 and EHD 170.

All candidates are placed in field experience sites and student teaching assignments with teachers whose instructional approaches and methods in teaching are consistent with a balanced, comprehensive program and who collaborate with institutional supervisors and instructors.

The field experiences of each Multiple Subject Credential candidate, including student teaching assignments, are designed to establish cohesive connections between reading methods coursework, reading-related coursework, and the practical experience components of the program, which provide ongoing opportunities to participate in effective reading instruction.

The institution provides for careful and thorough communication and collaboration between field site supervisors, student teaching supervisors and reading methods instructors to assure modeling of effective practice, monitoring of candidate progress, and the assessment of Multiple Subject Credential candidate attainment of performance standards in reading, writing and related language instruction.

SECTION II:

Qualifications and Role Expectations

Qualification Criteria for School Sites, School Site Partners and Cooperating Teachers

Selection of school sites, school site partners and Cooperating Teachers is done through collaborative efforts between the Director of Professional Field Experiences, University Supervisors and local school administrators. Sites are selected based on the following criteria:

- a) School-site staff are involved in staff training activities on a continual basis
- b) School curriculum reflects the California State Frameworks and current methodologies in the field of education
- c) Student population provides variety for Teacher Candidates such as age, gender, ethnicity, language, special needs and socioeconomic backgrounds
- d) District personnel, school-site administrators and teachers are willing to work cooperatively with University Supervisors and Teacher Candidates
- e) Area, location and size of sites meet current Teacher Candidate needs
- f) Teachers on-site meet the qualifications to be Cooperating Teachers or School Site Partners.

California State University Fresno also follows selection criteria as described in CCTC Standards for the Preparation of Multiple Subject Teaching Credential Candidates for Reading, Writing and Related Language Instruction in English. California State University Fresno provides adequate resources to staff reading and language arts courses, including sufficient numbers of positions (including permanent positions) for instructional faculty and field supervisors, and provides sufficient resources to build communication and cooperation between faculty members, school district personnel and classroom teachers that reinforce connections between coursework and field experiences pertaining to reading and language arts instruction.

Using the established criteria for selection of sites and the qualifications for Master Teachers, the Director of Professional Field Experiences and/or her designee (University Supervisor) work through the on-site administrator to finalize assignments and procedures for orientations. Teacher Candidates are not assigned to schools in which their children are enrolled or those in which family members are employed.

Each prospective Cooperating Teacher or School Site Partner is expected to complete the Master Teacher/School Site Partner Questionnaire. These are used as one means of gathering information regarding the effectiveness of the Multiple Subject Credential Program. Results are shared and discussed with faculty. Cooperating Teachers are encouraged to attend a Master Teacher Training Workshop at the university every year.

Qualifications for Cooperating/Master Teachers- EHD 178, 110D and EHD 170

When identifying classroom teachers to supervise Multiple Subject Credential and Education Specialist candidates in EHD 178, 110D, and EHD 170 field study, the institution confers with district personnel, carefully analyzes their pedagogical practices and selects teachers whose instructional approaches and strategies are balanced, comprehensive and consistent with current research as reflected in state policy.

Teachers who supervise candidates' field experiences have had academic preparation, successful experience in teaching appropriate curriculum subject(s) and have remained current with changes in the profession and the student population.

1. Cooperating Teachers are highly qualified, credentialed teachers with 3 or more years of classroom experience as a practicing classroom teacher to provide the best possible role model for Teacher Candidates.

3. Cooperating Teachers are able to collaborate with adults, ask the right questions of beginning teachers in order to stimulate their growth and independence. Raising questions is an important part of the learning process, and it should help both the Teacher Candidate and the Master Teacher.
4. Cooperating Teachers are receptive of Teacher Candidate's use of a variety of methods and encourage them to develop their own style of teaching.
5. Cooperating Teachers emphasize the principles of continuous learning and reflection. Cooperating Teachers play an important role in modeling desirable attitudes and values, as well as in helping newcomers to understand specific practices. For example, Cooperating Teachers should be current in their knowledge of the subject matter, California State Frameworks, California Standards for the Teaching Profession, Common Core Standards and district guidelines. They should be current in the latest methodology and be involved in curriculum development. In addition, active participation in school-related activities and committees is expected.
6. Cooperating Teachers acquaint the Teacher Candidates with the everyday survival skills in the teaching profession. It is important that a beginning teacher learn the expectations and responsibilities of a teacher at a school site. Not only is it a critical skill that will enable a teacher to accomplish his/her professional and school goals, but also a genuine survival skill.

Confidentiality of Student Records

It is important to understand that the confidential records of others represent a highly sensitive area. In recognition of this sensitivity, the United States Congress passed the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, which made explicit the principles of confidentiality, which are summarized here.

The communication of confidential information to another person, except within the authorized educational framework, is a violation of individual rights which have legal protection and may lead to serious consequences. Teacher Candidates are advised that they are not to discuss information derived from the educational records of students with anyone except authorized personnel including the responsible instructors, concerned administrative or individuals responsible for pupil personnel or health services. The use of actual confidential information concerning students for discussion in university classes, whether or not the students are individually identified, may also constitute a violation of privilege and should be handled with extreme caution.

It is an established legal principle that access to the records of another person may be necessary for individuals in certain types of positions in order for them to do their job. However, in granting such privilege, the courts have consistently imposed a strict duty on those to whom privilege is granted to protect the confidentiality of the information to which they have access.

While Teacher Candidates may be permitted access to certain student records under responsible control, care must be taken to protect the confidentiality of any and all information contained in such records.

As a Teacher Candidate, you will at times have access to student information such as test scores, teacher reports, or even verbal comments. All such information comes under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 which protects its confidentiality.

Therefore, without belaboring the technicalities of this Act, Teacher Candidates would be advised to protect themselves against violation of the Act as well as the tenets of professional ethics by observing the following principles:

1. Treat all knowledge of students in strictest confidence.
2. Discuss student information only with your Cooperating Teacher and ask him/her what you may or may not do with any information.
3. Do not participate in a discussion verbally or electronically of students in the teachers' room, in front of staff, parents or anywhere outside of the classroom.
4. Guard carefully any records entrusted to you, such as grade books, rosters of test scores, etc. Do not leave them where they might get out of your possession.

SECTION IV:
Policy for Teacher Candidate
Reassignment/Dismissal

Policy for Teacher Candidate Reassignment/Dismissal

In certain situations, a Teacher Candidate may need to be moved to a second teaching assignment or removed totally from student teaching. Difficulties which the Teacher Candidate does not overcome, such as: personality conflicts, conflicting expectations, excessive absences, inadequate performance, breach of professional ethics and insurmountable discipline problems are some of the typical problems.

If the University Supervisor identifies any of the above difficulties the following procedures will be followed:

1. A joint conference will be held with the Teacher Candidate, and University Supervisor. The Director of Professional Field Experiences and the site principal will be notified.
2. A written summary of the conference will be prepared by the University Supervisor. This report will state the areas of needed improvement and recommendations for remediation. The Teacher Candidate and University Supervisor must sign and date the report. Copies of all evaluations, weekly block plans, competency logs or any pertinent paperwork are attached to the report. Copies will be given to all concerned parties.
3. The Cooperating Teacher will document the Teacher Candidate's progress, conferring daily. The University Supervisor will conduct a weekly formal observation and evaluation. A conference to review progress will be conducted at least once weekly, which may necessitate the Teacher Candidate coming back to school for meetings outside of student teaching hours.
4. If satisfactory improvement has not been demonstrated by the Teacher Candidate teacher, a second joint conference will be conducted between the Teacher Candidate, Cooperating Teacher, University Supervisor and the Director of Professional Field Experiences. The site principal will be informed of this conference.
5. A written summary of this conference will be prepared by the University Supervisor. This summary, with observations, evaluations, lesson plans, weekly block plans and competency logs attached, will include a notation that the Teacher Candidate has been placed on probationary status. Areas of needed improvement will be identified as well as steps for remediation. A specified date for satisfactory completion will be noted, and the Teacher Candidate must adhere to this timeline or be removed from the classroom. Removal from the classroom will result in a grade of no-credit (NC). The Teacher Candidate and University Supervisor must sign and date this report and copies will be given to all concerned parties.
6. A third conference will be held with all concerned parties within three days of the deadline date specified in the second conference, again followed by a written summary with recommendations and signatures of the parties involved.
7. If a Teacher Candidate is asked by school site personal to be removed from their placement and or school site the teacher candidate will immediately stop all contact with anyone at the school site. A joint conference will be held with the Director of Professional Field Experiences, University Supervisor, and Teacher Candidate at the University.

8. The final responsibility for the assignment of a course grade lies with the University Supervisor.
9. This process will not be extended beyond the term of the California State University Fresno semester.
10. If the Teacher Candidate believes the NC grade has been assigned unfairly, information may be obtained pertaining to the University's policy and procedure for protesting a final grade in the Office of Advising Services, Joyal Administration, Room 224.

Note: Students who receive a “No Credit” grade in any student teaching course are required to petition the Admissions and Standards Committee for approval to retake the course. Students who receive a grade of “No credit” a second time will be dismissed from the Multiple Subject Credential Program. Teacher Candidates whose placements are terminated after the date for refund of tuition are responsible for full tuition regardless of circumstances leading to termination.

Joint Assessment Process by Cooperating/Master Teachers/University Supervisors

Cooperating Teachers and University Supervisors have an important collaborative role in the teacher education program. Roles and responsibilities, which are included in the Multiple Subject Field Placement Handbook, will be discussed by both parties early in the semester at the school site orientation meetings. At the end of the semester (or while in progress if deemed necessary) the University Supervisor and Master Teacher will review the roles and responsibilities of each together and discuss those that may have been done differently; talk about any concerns; and provide suggestions for each other. If there are serious discrepancies between the two parties in terms of how they view each other's performance and support, it is encouraged that the school principal/school-site management team and/or the Kremen School of Education and Human Development Director of Professional Field Experiences be notified (559-278-0257). It is always the intention that concerns be resolved as soon as possible. The final grade is the responsibility of the University Supervisor.

Course Policies

Grading:

Teacher Candidates receive a grade of credit or no-credit as a result of their performance in their field assignment(s). Field Study A provides many opportunities for multi-modal assessments. University Supervisors will visit the school site at least once a week. Reflective journaling, observations, written lesson plans, lesson analysis and implementation of teaching strategies with students in the classrooms will provide evidence of proficiency. The supervisor signs a Mid-Semester Self Reflection/Goal Setting form and verifies competencies throughout the semester. Competencies are outlined in the Multiple Subject Field Placement Handbook. A score of 2 or above is necessary to pass the Comprehensive Lesson Plan Project. Satisfactory completion of all competencies, as verified by the University Supervisor, is required for credit in the course.

Attendance:

Case studies and other Phase I course related assignments may be drawn from students in Field Placement A, however, additional time outside of required field placement hours will be necessary to complete these assignments.

Regular attendance is imperative. Teacher Candidates are expected to arrive at the school on time and to remain at the school for the full-designated period. Absences, leaving early, or tardiness are dealt with on an individual basis. Teacher Candidates will be required to make-up time absent by adding days to the field placement experience. If a Teacher Candidate is going to be absent, he or she must notify the University Supervisor, the school and School Site Partner/Master Teacher by 7:30 AM on the day of their assigned class time. It may be necessary to have someone bring materials and/or lesson plans to the classroom to be used in the Teacher Candidate's absence. Excess absences may result in a No Credit for the course.

Professional Ethical Behavior:

As a guest at the assigned school site, it is expected that the Teacher Candidate model exemplary professional and ethical behavior at all times. Professional behavior includes not receiving and or making cell phone calls or texts during class time. My Space or similar online forms of communication should be kept professional. The Teacher Candidate Code of Ethics and Confidentiality of Student Records in the Field Placement Handbook (pages 17-18) can serve as a guide.

The Professional Dress:

The Teacher Candidate maintains a professional appearance. An appropriate appearance is defined as clothing that models professionalism for students. Do not wear low rise pants, tops that do not reach below the top of pants or plunge low, spaghetti straps, tube tops, halter tops, jeans, shorts, miniskirts or attire that is revealing or detracts from the professional role of a teacher is unacceptable. Be sure to meet school dress and safety codes. School dress codes may not allow the wearing of the Bulldog insignia. A Teacher Candidate may be asked to leave their assignment if appearance is not appropriate or a professional ethical demeanor is not maintained.

Tentative Course Schedule:

Field Study A requires Teacher Candidates to be at the assigned school site in the classroom with students a minimum of 6 hours over at least 2 afternoons, as well as, scheduled seminars. Because school schedules vary, duty hours may be adjusted by the University Supervisors and School Site Partners. Case studies and other Phase I course related assignments may be drawn from students in Field Study A, however, additional time outside of regular field placement hours will be necessary to complete these assignments.

University Policies

Students with Disabilities:

Upon identifying themselves to the instructor and the university, students with disabilities will receive reasonable accommodation for learning and evaluation. For more information, contact Services to Students with Disabilities in Madden Library 1049 (278-2811).

Honor Code: “Members of the CSU Fresno academic community adhere to principles of academic integrity and mutual respect while engaged in university work and related activities.” You should:

- a) understand or seek clarification about expectations for academic integrity in this course (including no cheating, plagiarism and inappropriate collaboration)
- b) neither give nor receive unauthorized aid on examinations or other course work that is used by the instructor as the basis of grading.
- c) take responsibility to monitor academic dishonesty in any form and to report it to the instructor or other appropriate official for action.

Instructors may require students to sign a statement at the end of all exams and assignments that “I have done my own work and have neither given nor received unauthorized assistance on this work.” If you are going to use this statement, include it here.

Cheating and Plagiarism:

Cheating is the actual or attempted practice of fraudulent or deceptive acts for the purpose of improving one's grade or obtaining course credit; such acts also include assisting another student to do so. Typically, such acts occur in relation to examinations. However, it is the intent of this definition that the term 'cheating' not be limited to examination situations only, but that it include any and all actions by a student that are intended to gain an unearned academic advantage by fraudulent or deceptive means. Plagiarism is a specific form of cheating which consists of the misuse of the published and/or unpublished works of others by misrepresenting the material (i.e., their intellectual property) so used as one's own work." Penalties for cheating and plagiarism range from a 0 or F on a particular assignment, through an F for the course, to expulsion from the university. For more information on the University's policy regarding cheating and plagiarism, refer to the Class Schedule (Legal Notices on Cheating and Plagiarism) or the University Catalog (Policies and Regulations).

Make Up Policy for Planned and Unplanned Absences:

In the case of an unplanned student absence, papers, tests, and/or homework assignments due during the time the student is absent may be made up only if the student contacts the instructor as soon as practicable after the absence occurs and works out a plan. In the case of authorized absences due to university-sponsored activities, students should expect to submit their work to the instructor on or before the due date, or as arranged with the instructor. This includes papers, tests, and/or homework assignments. See grading policy in syllabus for additional information.

When a student is absent for an extended time period, a viable make-up plan may not be feasible. In these circumstances, other options such as dropping the class for a serious and compelling reason or withdrawal from the university may be appropriate.

Computers: "At California State University, Fresno, computers and communications links to remote resources are recognized as being integral to the education and research experience. Every student is required to have his/her own computer or have other personal access to a workstation (including a modem and a printer) with all the recommended software. The minimum and recommended standards for the workstations and software, which may vary by academic major, are updated periodically and are available from Information Technology Services (<http://www.csufresno.edu/ITS/>) or the University Bookstore. In the curriculum and class assignments, students are presumed to have 24-hour access to a computer workstation and the necessary communication links to the University's information resources."

Disruptive Classroom Behavior: "The classroom is a special environment in which students and faculty come together to promote learning and growth. It is essential to this learning environment that respect for the rights of others seeking to learn, respect for the professionalism of the instructor, and the general goals of academic freedom are maintained. ... Differences of viewpoint or concerns should be expressed in terms which are supportive of the learning process, creating an environment in which students and faculty may learn to reason with clarity and compassion, to share of themselves without losing their identities, and to develop and understanding of the community in which they live . . . Student conduct which disrupts the learning process shall not be tolerated and may lead to disciplinary action and/or removal from class."

Grading:

Teacher Candidates receive a grade of credit or no-credit as a result of their performance in their field assignment(s). Field Study B provides many opportunities for multi-modal assessments. University Supervisors will visit the school site every other week. Reflective journaling, observations, written lesson plans, lesson analysis and implementation of teaching strategies with students in the classrooms will provide evidence of proficiency. There is a mid-way progress report in a three-way conference with Master Teacher, Teacher Candidate, and University Supervisor. The Master Teacher also collaborates with the supervisor, completes a final assessment form, and meets with the Teacher Candidate at the end of the semester. The University Supervisor verifies competencies on a regular basis and meets with the student on the Site Visitation Project. Competencies are outlined in the Multiple Subject Field Placement Handbook. Satisfactory completion of all competencies including a passing score of 2 or above on the Site Visitation Project, as verified by the University Supervisor, is required for credit in the course. Failure to complete and submit the Site Visitation Project on Task Stream by the required date may place teacher candidate in jeopardy of not receiving credit for the course.

Students who receive a “No Credit” grade in the EHD 178/110D, Field Study B student teaching course are required to petition the Admissions and Standards Committee for approval to retake the course. Students who receive a grade of “No Credit” for a second time will be dismissed from the Multiple Subject Credential Program. Teacher Candidates whose placements are terminated after the date for refund of tuition are responsible for full tuition regardless of circumstances leading to termination.

Attendance:

Regular attendance is imperative. Teacher Candidates are expected to arrive at the school on time and to remain at the school for the full-designated period. Absences are dealt with on an individual basis. A Teacher Candidate may be required to make-up time absent by adding days to the field placement experience. If a Teacher Candidate is going to be absent, he or she must notify the University Supervisor, the school and Master Teacher by 7:30 AM on the day of the absence. It may be necessary to have someone bring materials and/or lesson plans to the classroom to be used in the Teacher Candidate’s absence. Excess absences may result in a No Credit for the course

Professional Ethical Behavior:

As a guest at the assigned school site, it is expected that the Teacher Candidate model exemplary professional and ethical behavior at all times. Professional behavior includes not receiving and or making cell phone calls or texting during class time. My Space or similar online forms of communication should be kept professional. The Teacher Candidate Code of Ethics and Confidentiality of Student Records in the Student Teacher Handbook (pages 16-17) can serve as a guide.

Professional Dress:

Teacher Candidate maintains a professional appearance. An appropriate appearance is defined as clothing that models professionalism for students. Do not wear low rise pants, tops that do not reach below the top of pants or plunge low, spaghetti straps, tube tops, halter tops, jeans, shorts, or miniskirts. Attire that is revealing or detracts from the professional role of a teacher is unacceptable. Be sure to meet school dress and safety codes. School dress codes may not allow the wearing of the Bulldog insignia. A Teacher Candidate may be asked to leave their assignment if appearance is not appropriate or a professional ethical demeanor is not maintained.

Substitute Policy:

EHD 178/110D Teacher Candidates are not permitted to serve as substitute teachers during any of the days they are on duty as student teachers.

Tentative Course Schedule:

EHD 178, Field Study B requires Teacher Candidates to spend a minimum of 12 hours a week, Monday -Thursday 8:00-11:00 AM, in a K-3 grade classroom where they will complete course competencies. EHD 110D, Field Study B requires Teacher Candidates to spend a minimum of 20 hours a week, Monday-Fridays 8:00-12:00. Dual teacher Candidates spend approximately 16 hours in a K-3 Multiple Subject classroom and 4 hours in a Special Education placement. Because school starting times vary, duty hours may be adjusted by the supervisor based the school's schedule. Teacher Candidates must be at the school for additional time as required for planning, seminars, and conferences/meetings with the master teachers. Case studies and other Phase 2 course related assignments may be drawn from students in EHD 178/110D, Field Study B, however, additional time outside of required field placement hours will be necessary to complete these assignments.

University Policies

Students with Disabilities:

Upon identifying themselves to the instructor and the university, students with disabilities will receive reasonable accommodation for learning and evaluation. For more information, contact Services to Students with Disabilities in Madden Library 1049 (278-2811).

Honor Code: “Members of the CSU Fresno academic community adhere to principles of academic integrity and mutual respect while engaged in university work and related activities.” You should:

- a) understand or seek clarification about expectations for academic integrity in this course (including no cheating, plagiarism and inappropriate collaboration)
- b) neither give nor receive unauthorized aid on examinations or other course work that is used by the instructor as the basis of grading.
- c) take responsibility to monitor academic dishonesty in any form and to report it to the instructor or other appropriate official for action.

Instructors may require students to sign a statement at the end of all exams and assignments that “I have done my own work and have neither given nor received unauthorized assistance on this work.” If you are going to use this statement, include it here.

Cheating and Plagiarism:

Cheating is the actual or attempted practice of fraudulent or deceptive acts for the purpose of improving one's grade or obtaining course credit; such acts also include assisting another student to do so. Typically, such acts occur in relation to examinations. However, it is the intent of this definition that the term 'cheating' not be limited to examination situations only, but that it include any and all actions by a student that are intended to gain an unearned academic advantage by fraudulent or deceptive means. Plagiarism is a specific form of cheating which consists of the misuse of the published and/or unpublished works of others by misrepresenting the material (i.e., their intellectual property) so used as one's own work." Penalties for cheating and plagiarism range from a 0 or F on a particular assignment, through an F for the course, to expulsion from the university. For more information on the University's policy regarding cheating and plagiarism, refer to the Class Schedule (Legal Notices on Cheating and Plagiarism) or the University Catalog (Policies and Regulations).

Make Up Policy for Planned and Unplanned Absences:

In the case of an unplanned student absence, papers, tests, and/or homework assignments due during the time the student is absent may be made up only if the student contacts the instructor as soon as practicable after the absence occurs and works out a plan. In the case of authorized absences due to university-sponsored activities, students should expect to submit their work to the instructor on or before the due date, or as arranged with the instructor. This includes papers, tests, and/or homework assignments. See grading policy in syllabus for additional information.

When a student is absent for an extended time period, a viable make-up plan may not be feasible. In these circumstances, other options such as dropping the class for a serious and compelling reason or withdrawal from the university may be appropriate.

Computers: "At California State University, Fresno, computers and communications links to remote resources are recognized as being integral to the education and research experience. Every student is required to have his/her own computer or have other personal access to a workstation (including a modem and a printer) with all the recommended software. The minimum and recommended standards for the workstations and software, which may vary by academic major, are updated periodically and are available from Information Technology Services (<http://www.csufresno.edu/ITS/>) or the University Bookstore. In the curriculum and class assignments, students are presumed to have 24-hour access to a computer workstation and the necessary communication links to the University's information resources."

Disruptive Classroom Behavior: "The classroom is a special environment in which students and faculty come together to promote learning and growth. It is essential to this learning environment that respect for the rights of others seeking to learn, respect for the professionalism of the instructor, and the general goals of academic freedom are maintained. ... Differences of viewpoint or concerns should be expressed in terms which are supportive of the learning process, creating an environment in which students and faculty may learn to reason with clarity and compassion, to share of themselves without losing their identities, and to develop and understanding of the community in which they live . . . Student conduct which disrupts the learning process shall not be tolerated and may lead to disciplinary action and/or removal from class."

Written documentation as well as the signature of the University Supervisor is required to verify completion of the EHD 178/110D competencies. It is the student’s responsibility to initiate and follow through with these assignments. These competencies can be documented by completing competency documentation forms, observations or lesson plans with reflections. Supervisors are responsible for reviewing all documentation and giving feedback on lessons they see taught.

Teacher candidates write lesson plans using effective teaching models. Did all students meet the desired objective? Was the objective appropriate? How do you know? Would you teach this lesson again the same way or change it to make it more effective? Reflect on the strategy/strategies that you used for focus student 1 and focus student 2? Were they effective? What changes would you make and why? How did you integrate co-teaching strategies into this lesson.

Co-Teaching Strategies & Examples

Strategy	Definition/Example
One Teach, One Observe	One teacher has primary responsibility while the other gathers specific observational information on students or the (instructing) teacher. The key to this strategy is to focus the observation – where the teacher doing the observation is observing specific behaviors. Example: One teacher can observe students for their understanding of directions while the other leads.
One Teach, One Assist	An extension of One Teach, One Observe. One teacher has primary instructional responsibility while the other assists students with their work, monitors behaviors, or corrects assignments. Example: While one teacher has the instructional lead, the person assisting can be the “voice” for the students when they don’t understand or are having difficulties.
Station Teaching	The co-teaching pair divides the instructional content into parts – Each teacher instructs one of the groups, groups then rotate or spend a designated amount of time at each station – often an independent station will be used along with the teacher led stations. Example: One teacher might lead a station where the students play a money math game and the other teacher could have a mock store where the students purchase items and make change.
Parallel Teaching	Each teacher instructs half the students. The two teachers are addressing the same instructional material and presenting the material using the same teaching strategy. The greatest benefit to this approach is the reduction of student to teacher ratio. Example: Both teachers are leading a question and answer discussion on specific current events and the impact they have on our economy.
Supplemental Teaching	This strategy allows one teacher to work with students at their expected grade level, while the other teacher works with those students who need the information and/or materials retaught, extended or remediated. Example: One teacher may work with students who need reteaching of a concept while the other teacher works with the rest of the students on enrichment.
Alternative (Differentiated)	Alternative teaching strategies provide two different approaches to teaching the same information. The learning outcome is the same for all students however the avenue for getting there is different. Example: One instructor may lead a group in predicting prior to reading by looking at the cover of the book and the illustrations, etc. The other instructor accomplishes the same outcome but with his/her group, the students predict by connecting the items pulled out of the bag with the story.
Team Teaching	Well planned, team taught lessons, exhibit an invisible flow of instruction with no prescribed division of authority. Using a team teaching strategy, both teachers are actively involved in the lesson. From a students’ perspective, there is no clearly defined leader – as both teachers share the instruction, are free to interject information, and available to assist students and answer questions. Example: Both instructors can share the reading of a story or text so that the students are hearing two voices.

The strategies are not hierarchical – they can be used in any order and/or combined to best meet the needs of the students in the classroom.

2b. Students know the sequential stages of life cycles are different for different animals such as butterflies, frogs, and mice.

Co-teaching Strategy: _____

2. Learning Goal:
“The goal of the lesson states what you plan to accomplish and what you intend your students to learn.” (Sherman and Sherman, p. 165)

Example:

3. Objective:
“Objectives are specific statements that establish carefully thought out learning outcomes. They also specify conditions for learning and set expected standards for student performance.” (Sherman and Sherman, p. 165)

Example:

By drawing a correctly sequenced concept map, students will demonstrate the physical characteristics of the stages of the life cycle of a butterfly (stages and sequence: egg, caterpillar, chrysalis, and adult butterfly)

4. Inquiry Prompt:
What is the question you will use to guide the investigation/inquiry?

Example:

How does a butterfly change as it grows?

5. Materials:
List all of the needed teacher and student materials.

6. Key Vocabulary:
List all science terminology and academic language that will be introduced. Specify the method you will use to contextualize the vocabulary.

7. Procedure:
In a step-by-step format provide a detailed sequence of the components of the lesson. All definitions, background information, and resources need to be included.

Required elements: constructivist teaching design, inquiry design, English Learner strategy, special needs strategy, and instructional technology application.

Inquiry methodology needs to be evident in the steps of the procedure.

Possible evidence of inquiry:

Teacher-Directed Inquiry Option: Questioning Strategy: Using Bloom's taxonomy provide teacher prompt questions: List the questions you will ask and indicate the level of Bloom's taxonomy. Make sure your questions extend beyond "knowledge" and "comprehension" levels.

Guided Inquiry Option: Exploration: Students are given materials to investigate. Specific inquiry questions are provided to focus the investigation. Ex. "How does the toy make the sound?"

Student-Directed Inquiry Option: Student Investigation: Students investigate a question on their own. Example: Students create their own sound toy and explain how it makes sound.

8. Assessment:

Assessments may include: "homework, quizzes, systematic observations of students, formal interviews, oral reports, essays, performance appraisals, performance tasks, journals, learning logs, laboratory notebooks, self-assessments, and portfolios of work." (Sherman and Sherman, p. 171)

Detail the specific performance criteria that will be used for evaluation.

Example:

Students will create a concept map that will include:

1. All of the stages of the life cycle of the butterfly are included (stages: egg, caterpillar, chrysalis, and adult butterfly).
2. The stages are drawn in the correct sequence.
2. The correct physical characteristics of each stage of the life cycle are illustrated. (egg: small, round ball; caterpillar: multi-segmented larva with legs and eyes; chrysalis: oval form, hanging from a twig; adult butterfly: head, thorax, abdomen, six legs coming from the thorax, two eyes, and two antennae).

Course Policies

Grading:

Teacher Candidates receive a grade of credit or no-credit as a result of their performance in their field assignment(s). Field Study C provides many opportunities for multi-modal assessments. University Supervisors will visit the school site every week. Reflective journaling, observations, written lesson plans, lesson analysis and implementation of teaching strategies with students in the classrooms will provide evidence of proficiency. There is a mid-way progress report in a three-way conference with Master Teacher, Teacher Candidate, and University Supervisor. The Master Teacher also collaborates with the supervisor, completes a final assessment form, and meets with the Teacher Candidate at the end of the semester. The University Supervisor verifies competencies on a regular basis including completion of the Holistic Proficiency Project and Teaching Sample Project. Teacher Performance Assessment (TPA 3: Teaching Project) requires a written document as well as a classroom performance assessment visitation/observation by a university supervisor. Competencies are outlined in the Multiple Subject Student Teaching Handbook. Satisfactory completion of all competencies including passing scores of 2 or above on the Teaching Sample Project and the Holistic Proficiency Project, as verified by the University Supervisor, is required for credit in the course.

Failure to submit the Teacher Performance assessments by the required timeline may place a teacher candidate in jeopardy of not receiving credit for the course.

Students who receive a “No Credit” grade in the Field Study C student teaching course are required to petition the Admissions and Standards Committee for approval to retake the course. Students who receive a grade of “No Credit” for a second time will be dismissed from the Multiple Subject Credential Program. Teacher Candidates whose placements are terminated after the date for refund of tuition are responsible for full tuition regardless of circumstances leading to termination.

Attendance:

Regular attendance is imperative. Teacher Candidates are expected to arrive at the school site 1/2 hour before school day begins and stay until at least 1/2 hour after school ends. Teacher Candidates are to be at the school in the classroom with students Monday through Friday and participate in school activities. Absences are dealt with on an individual basis. A Teacher Candidate may be required to make-up time absent by adding days to the field placement experience. If a Teacher Candidate is going to be absent, he or she must notify the University Supervisor, the school and Master Teacher by 7:30 AM on the day of the absence. It may be necessary to have someone bring materials and/or lesson plans to the classroom to be used in the Teacher Candidate's absence. Excess absences may result in a No Credit for the course.

Professional Ethical Behavior:

As a guest at the assigned school site, it is expected that the Teacher Candidate model exemplary professional and ethical behavior at all times. Professional behavior includes not receiving and or making cell phone calls or texting during class time. My Space or similar online forms of communication should be kept professional. The Teacher Candidate Code of Ethics and Confidentiality of Student Records in the Student Teacher Handbook (pages 16-17) can serve as a guide.

The Professional Dress:

The Teacher Candidate is expected to maintain a professional appearance. An appropriate appearance is defined as clothing that models professionalism for students. Do not wear low rise pants, tops that do not reach below the top of pants or plunge low, spaghetti straps, tube tops, halter tops, jeans, shorts, or miniskirts. Attire that is revealing or detracts from the professional role of a teacher is unacceptable. Be sure to meet school dress and safety codes. School dress codes may not allow the wearing of the Bulldog insignia. A Teacher Candidate may be asked to leave their assignment if appearance is not appropriate or a professional ethical demeanor is not maintained.

Substitute Policy

EHD 170 Teacher Candidates are not permitted to serve as substitute teachers at anytime unless authorization has been previously obtained from the University Supervisor and Director of Professional Field Experiences (278-0257). Authorization will only be granted upon documented need from the school district during the last 4-6 weeks of the semester. An agreement form must be completed, turned in to the Director of Professional Field Experiences, and then forwarded to the Credential Analyst.

This syllabus and schedule are subject to change in the event of extenuating circumstances.

University Policies

Students with Disabilities:

Upon identifying themselves to the instructor and the university, students with disabilities will receive reasonable accommodation for learning and evaluation. For more information, contact Services to Students with Disabilities in Madden Library 1049 (278-2811).

Honor Code: “Members of the CSU Fresno academic community adhere to principles of academic integrity and mutual respect while engaged in university work and related activities.” You should:

- a) understand or seek clarification about expectations for academic integrity in this course (including no cheating, plagiarism and inappropriate collaboration)
- b) neither give nor receive unauthorized aid on examinations or other course work that is used by the instructor as the basis of grading.
- c) take responsibility to monitor academic dishonesty in any form and to report it to the instructor or other appropriate official for action.

Instructors may require students to sign a statement at the end of all exams and assignments that “I have done my own work and have neither given nor received unauthorized assistance on this work.” If you are going to use this statement, include it here.

Cheating and Plagiarism:

Cheating is the actual or attempted practice of fraudulent or deceptive acts for the purpose of improving one's grade or obtaining course credit; such acts also include assisting another student to do so. Typically, such acts occur in relation to examinations. However, it is the intent of this definition that the term 'cheating' not be limited to examination situations only, but that it include any and all actions by a student that are intended to gain an unearned academic advantage by fraudulent or deceptive means. Plagiarism is a specific form of cheating which consists of the misuse of the published and/or unpublished works of others by misrepresenting the material (i.e., their intellectual property) so used as one's own work." Penalties for cheating and plagiarism range from a 0 or F on a particular assignment, through an F for the course, to expulsion from the university. For more information on the University's policy regarding cheating and plagiarism, refer to the Class Schedule (Legal Notices on Cheating and Plagiarism) or the University Catalog (Policies and Regulations).

Make Up Policy for Planned and Unplanned Absences:

In the case of an unplanned student absence, papers, tests, and/or homework assignments due during the time the student is absent may be made up only if the student contacts the instructor as soon as practicable after the absence occurs and works out a plan. In the case of authorized absences due to university-sponsored activities, students should expect to submit their work to the instructor on or before the due date, or as arranged with the instructor. This includes papers, tests, and/or homework assignments. See grading policy in syllabus for additional information.

When a student is absent for an extended time period, a viable make-up plan may not be feasible. In these circumstances, other options such as dropping the class for a serious and compelling reason or withdrawal from the university may be appropriate.

Computers: "At California State University, Fresno, computers and communications links to remote resources are recognized as being integral to the education and research experience. Every student is required to have his/her own computer or have other personal access to a workstation (including a modem and a printer) with all the recommended software. The minimum and recommended standards for the workstations and software, which may vary by academic major, are updated periodically and are available from Information Technology Services (<http://www.csufresno.edu/ITS/>) or the University Bookstore. In the curriculum and class assignments, students are presumed to have 24-hour access to a computer workstation and the necessary communication links to the University's information resources."

Disruptive Classroom Behavior: "The classroom is a special environment in which students and faculty come together to promote learning and growth. It is essential to this learning environment that respect for the rights of others seeking to learn, respect for the professionalism of the instructor, and the general goals of academic freedom are maintained. ... Differences of viewpoint or concerns should be expressed in terms which are supportive of the learning process, creating an environment in which students and faculty may learn to reason with clarity and compassion, to share of themselves without losing their identities, and to develop and understanding of the community in which they live . . . Student conduct which disrupts the learning process shall not be tolerated and may lead to disciplinary action and/or removal from class."

Co-Teaching Strategies & Examples

Strategy	Definition/Example
One Teach, One Observe	One teacher has primary responsibility while the other gathers specific observational information on students or the (instructing) teacher. The key to this strategy is to focus the observation – where the teacher doing the observation is observing specific behaviors. Example: One teacher can observe students for their understanding of directions while the other leads.
One Teach, One Assist	An extension of One Teach, One Observe. One teacher has primary instructional responsibility while the other assists students with their work, monitors behaviors, or corrects assignments. Example: While one teacher has the instructional lead, the person assisting can be the “voice” for the students when they don’t understand or are having difficulties.
Station Teaching	The co-teaching pair divides the instructional content into parts – Each teacher instructs one of the groups, groups then rotate or spend a designated amount of time at each station – often an independent station will be used along with the teacher led stations. Example: One teacher might lead a station where the students play a money math game and the other teacher could have a mock store where the students purchase items and make change.
Parallel Teaching	Each teacher instructs half the students. The two teachers are addressing the same instructional material and presenting the material using the same teaching strategy. The greatest benefit to this approach is the reduction of student to teacher ratio. Example: Both teachers are leading a question and answer discussion on specific current events and the impact they have on our economy.
Supplemental Teaching	This strategy allows one teacher to work with students at their expected grade level, while the other teacher works with those students who need the information and/or materials retaught, extended or remediated. Example: One teacher may work with students who need reteaching of a concept while the other teacher works with the rest of the students on enrichment.
Alternative (Differentiated)	Alternative teaching strategies provide two different approaches to teaching the same information. The learning outcome is the same for all students however the avenue for getting there is different. Example: One instructor may lead a group in predicting prior to reading by looking at the cover of the book and the illustrations, etc. The other instructor accomplishes the same outcome but with his/her group, the students predict by connecting the items pulled out of the bag with the story.
Team Teaching	Well planned, team taught lessons, exhibit an invisible flow of instruction with no prescribed division of authority. Using a team teaching strategy, both teachers are actively involved in the lesson. From a students’ perspective, there is no clearly defined leader – as both teachers share the instruction, are free to interject information, and available to assist students and answer questions. Example: Both instructors can share the reading of a story or text so that the students are hearing two voices.

The strategies are not hierarchical – they can be used in any order and/or combined to best meet the needs of the students in the classroom.
