

FRESNO STATE

Kremen School of Education and Human Development

The John D. Welty Center for Educational Policy and Leadership

Bringing the best leadership practices to every aspect of education in the San Joaquin Valley.

Established in 2002 under the leadership of President Welty, the “Central Valley Educational Leadership Institute” (CVELI) in the Kremen School of Education and Human Development seeks to elevate educational leadership and eliminate the achievement gap for students in the Central Valley.

The institute works with nationally-recognized educational leaders to develop policies and training that help realize the American dream for all children. The vision is to build upon the success of CVELI by establishing a permanent funding source and rename the institute in honor of President Welty.

Throughout his tenure, Dr. Welty championed the role of higher education as a catalyst for educational and economic growth. The establishment of The Welty Center will sustain President Welty’s passion for improving the educational and economic condition of the Central Valley.

Doctoral Program in Educational Leadership at Fresno State

The doctorate in education prepares administrators to meet the educational challenges of today and the future. New skills developed in the program will enable you to:

- Acquire theoretical, practical, methodological and empirical knowledge
- Conduct field-based research
- Serve the needs of an increasingly diverse student population
- Establish sound educational policy and practice
- Play a leadership role in educational reform
- Conduct educational assessments and evaluations

All courses are taught in Fresno and are held during the late afternoons, evenings, and/or the weekends to accommodate full-time working professionals.

“The Fresno State Doctoral Program is a participant in the prestigious national study of Education Doctorates by the Carnegie Foundation.”
