Women's Studies presents an exciting opportunity to anyone who wants to know more about the impact of gender on their lives and the world. The focus on a core aspect of all our identities makes the field personally rewarding and socially important. Attentiveness to diversity, power, and women's unique creative contributions to human experience are central aspects of this training.

Nationally, Women's Studies students have established successful careers in a variety of fields from diversity studies to law, k-12 to graduate studies, biology to nursing, the creative arts to telecommunications, criminology to victim services, business and management to social change organizing, history to philosophy, and health and human services to social services. At CSU Fresno, among a sampling of our recent graduates you will find those who have been accepted into prestigious national Ph.D. programs, established businesses, work as community organizers, become teachers, raise children, and developed professional careers in a variety of social services.

Please, take time to explore our website and learn more about the faculty expertise, on-line resources, and scholarship in the field of Women's Studies, <http://www.csufresno.edu/womensstudies/>.
