Steps for Readmission
for Disqualified Students

Readmission Criteria

- Students who are academically disqualified from Fresno State are required to be out for at least two semesters after their disqualification. Students must demonstrate academic improvement by completing courses through Fresno State Open University or any other regionally accredited institution.

- Students must complete all lower division general education (GE) requirements.

- Students who have already completed lower division GE before leaving Fresno State must complete a minimum of 6 units of degree applicable work using a combination of either major or GE courses (cannot use summer course work prior to the term student is reapplying).

- A student's overall transfer work after disqualification must be a minimum 2.50 GPA and needs to be in good academic standing at the last institution attended. Student must have graded coursework of a 2.50 GPA by end of fall term prior to admission.

- Students who wish to return and pursue a different major must meet the impaction criteria for that major if there is such criteria. If they are returning in the same major, if impacted, they can be readmitted without meeting the impaction criteria.
