

ADMISSION CLOSED FOR SPRING 2013

(Information updated as of June 30, 2012)

**For the most current information on Spring 2013 Admissions for Fresno State please visit www.csumentor.edu under "Is your campus still accepting applications"****

California State University, Fresno will not accept applications from new or returning students for the spring 2013 semester. We are closed for admission in all categories. This decision is made due to budget cuts to the California State University budget. State support for the CSU has been cut by almost $1 billion or 33% over the past four years, so the CSU system has taken numerous cost cutting measures, including the decision to close admission at many campuses for the spring 2013 term.

Closing admission to new students at Fresno State will help to ensure that continuing students will have access to classes needed to make progress toward their degree objective.

Eight CSU campuses will accept applications for the spring 2013 semester/quarter only from California Community College upper division transfer students who have completed the Associate Degree for Transfer in accordance with provisions of Senate Bill 1440. Prospective transfers to these campuses can apply via CSUMentor at: <http://www.csumentor.edu>. Application deadlines for these campuses can also be accessed at CSUMentor.

The university will begin accepting applications for the fall 2013 semester on October 1, 2012 and the deadline for new undergraduate students is November 30, 2012. CSU campuses will waitlist eligible students applying for fall 2013 until after the November 6 election when the outcome of the Governor's tax measure is known. Questions about application deadlines may be directed to Admissions and Records at 559.278.2261.