

The Garden News

Fresno State and TSJG Partnership News

The partnership between the Terraces at San Joaquin Gardens and Fresno State is growing. Over the fall representatives from TSJG and Fresno State have been meeting about various ways to collaborate. The spring will bring speakers and musicians to TSJG, as well as opportunities for residents to interact with students at Fresno State and take non-credit courses.

Jill Wagner, executive director of the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI) at Fresno State, will join us on Thursday, Feb. 5 at 9:30 A.M. in the Performing Arts Center/ Tolladay Theatre to talk about OLLI and the exciting class schedule for the spring semester.

In addition, Jessica Medina, project coordinator of the Fresno State Student Cupboard, recently shared an opportunity for residents to volunteer at Fresno State. The Student Cupboard is a food and hygiene pantry for Fresno State students. This is a place where students can receive free food and hygiene products for themselves and members of their family. Food insecurity is a growing issue on college campuses, and Fresno State is working hard to make sure that food insecurity isn't a problem on campus.

As students come into the Student Cupboard, volunteers will work to greet the students, assist them in choosing items from the shelves and even discuss possible meal ideas and ways to cook items.

Jessica will be at TSJG on Thursday, Feb. 5 at 10:00 a.m. the Performing Arts Center/ Tolladay Theatre to discuss this important program and how you can volunteer or donate to this most important cause.