Frequently Asked Questions:

Question: What if a student takes the exam on the first day and tells classmates what is on the exam?

Answer: Generally test scores reflect higher grade averages in the beginning of the testing period rather than at the end suggesting that very little, if any, test question sharing is occurring. Also you can give us multi-version exams to address this concern.

Question: With so many testers in one room how do you keep them from cheating?

Answer: We have trained proctors on duty, who watch the testers at ALL times. We also have security cameras with a DVR system that is always on during testing. We make sure the students do not have access to their cellphones, binders, backpacks or notes during exams. Supplemental testing aids, which you assign to your exam, are strictly enforced.

Question: What if I have students who work until late in the day?

Answer: We have late hours available on Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Question: My class has 500 students. Can you accommodate that many students?

Answer: Yes, we can! Now that we have moved, we have over 100 seats. The key is to manage the time allowed as well as the number of testing days allowed. For very large classes we suggest shorter time limits (1 hour) and longer testing day duration (3 days or more).
